Instrument And Sounds [Mac/Win]

Preview: Get instrument and sound packs to try: Total conversions: from Adobe Photoshop to Assembly for Mac OS X - a family of audio sampling, synthesis, and interactive instrument programs for Windows-based PC's. Sample sets and interface enhancements make the Sampler, Synth, and Instrument, a must-have instrument and sound set. The Synth is almost a complete instrument, with two Mic/Line inputs, a speaker output, and various modulation/envelope controls. This is the answer for those who have a question like: "Is there a midi-to-mac function?". Assembly is the only program to support this to date. Assembly... Now that we are more than halfway through this year, I thought it was time to look back at some of the best apps of 2016. With the year coming to an end, it is easy to forget apps that made an impact. And the truth is, many of the year's most well received apps were released in 2015. The top ten list includes some big hitters - like Message and WhatsApp - as well as some lesser known apps. Spotify is a great example of how one app can gain a huge following and still remain relatively unknown. I try to find something that works well and can do nearly everything you need and the list is smaller than I would like. I'm trying to find something that's like a really versatile folder manager and tool for the mac. I can open and use many of the files I might need like, edit the info, extract, and save them. But the ability to create folders, open and create zip files, and easily cut and paste different types of files into a temp folder for working on them, then drag/drop them to the main folder to keep all of them is something I haven't found. It's like having a folder version of a shotcut/preview. I could use the menu but then I would have to know what I want all the time, and I would prefer some sort of drag and drop into a viewport. If anyone has some good ideas, I'd be very interested. How to create a streaming media iPhone/iPad app What are the main features of a streaming media iPhone app?
