Multimedia Fusion vs Audacity: What Features you should be looking for? Introduction: Audacity is an amazing program with an amazing number of features. At the same time it is very powerful and therefore can become quite confusing when you start it for the first time. If you are looking for an inexpensive and powerful tool you should try Audacity. If you want to become a professional in audio editing there is no better tool than the one you are using now: Multimedia Fusion. Just like Audacity it is powerful and easy to use but it will cost you a little more than $40, but you get more than five times the features of Audacity. Features you should look for: 1) Flexibility. The first thing you should do is to decide which version of Multimedia Fusion you want to buy. The free version has the same amazing number of features as the paid one, but if you want more you should consider investing in the premium version. The more features you have the more you will have access to. At the same time the price is higher. At the moment the options are: the Basic version, the Standard one or the Plus one. 2) Drag and Drop support. The best thing about Multimedia Fusion is that you can add objects to it using the drag and drop function. It is as easy as pressing and holding a mouse button and dropping it on the area you want it to add to. 3) More online video tutorials. There are a lot of good tutorials for Audacity that you can look at. But if you are looking for the same tutorials for Multimedia Fusion you have to look online. Most online tutorial companies do not have the same good quality tutorials for Multimedia Fusion as they have for Audacity. 4) Additional functions. If you are wondering why one program can be fully featured and another one can not: it is simply that each developer has decided that some features are a must have and also some are not. The differences are small but make a world of a difference. 5) Speed. Lastly you should be looking at the speed of the program. Multimedia Fusion is not the fastest program on the market (not even close) and 6a5afdab4c
