"New South") is a subdistrict of the town of Anqing (), Anhui, China, located in the west of the prefecture-level city of Xuancheng. The area has a population of over 4,000, and is a major industrial centre of Anhui. History Anhui was originally named Chu (), which is now known as Anhui. The name Nanfang ("South of the River") was given to the area by Tang Dynasty artist Su Dongpo. In 635, the lands were returned to the state from the Tang dynasty. In the year 760, Nanfang was renamed Anfang () and in 848, it was renamed Anqing () when it was made the capital of Anhui. Location The main principal of this district is Anqing Railway Station, which is where all rail lines from Beijing to Shangqiu intersect.
