What's New in the Photoshop CS5?

1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to an image processing apparatus, a method for controlling the same, and a storage medium, and in particular, it relates to an image processing apparatus, a method for controlling the same, and a storage medium, which can control driving of a printer, whereby a print sheet can be ejected, and ejection of the print sheet can be prevented. 2. Related Background Art In general, a printing system in an image processing apparatus such as a copier or a printer is constituted by including an image processing apparatus, and a printing apparatus. Herein, the image processing apparatus is constituted by including functions such as data output, collating, transmission, reception, editing, and others, as well as image forming. The printing apparatus is a device, in which an image, which is described in the image processing apparatus, is printed according to a user's instruction. Further, a printing system, in which a plurality of printing apparatuses are connected to each other through a network, is known. When the conventional printing system is constituted in such a manner, even if one of the printing apparatuses which is connected to another printing apparatus via a network does not actually execute the printing operation, the printing apparatus continues to operate. In such a case, if a print sheet from a job for the printing apparatus which does not actually execute the printing operation is ejected, a printing sheet of a job for the printing apparatus which actually executes the printing operation cannot be ejected. In order to overcome such a drawback, an image processing apparatus, in which all print sheets can be effectively utilized to the full, even if the printing cannot be performed in each printing apparatus, and printing data which does not cause a problem is not ejected, has been proposed. For example, in the above-mentioned publication, a print sheet of a job for the printing apparatus, which normally performs the printing operation, is automatically informed of a status of a print sheet of a job for another printing apparatus. In such a case, if it is confirmed that the print sheet which is informed of the status of the print sheet can be used, the printing operation of the another printing apparatus can be stopped. Further, in the above-mentioned publication, a condition that the print sheets are printed is set, whereby the print sheets, which can be used, can be automatically outputted. However, the above-mentioned conventional image processing apparatus has a disadvantage that, since the print sheets, which
