It is very much a "stay out of sight and be silent and deadly" tank. It's active senses are emphasised in passive armour. The frontal armour is simply as thick as it can get. In the rear it's armour is primarily high velocity composite, which will resist projectiles. The concept is to stand behind a nuclear powered defensible reactive shield wall. Tiger Mk VIII has a smaller caliber of cannon than most other rhino tanks, because it doesn't need much high powered HE shells to shred things. If it's enemy is a vehicle it will try to destroy it's armour with armour piercing projectiles. Against infantry it will try to kill them with HE shells; against armour that it will try to kill them with armor piercing rounds.   Tiger Mk VII crew  Tiger Mk VII armour Tiger Mk VIII rear armour

Quantum Rush is a futuristic racer - in space. The player drives a hovercraft through a pseudo-3D, sci-fi landscape of asteroids, moons, and moons that are moons. The player races to collect the Lightstones that make up the ship's hull. The game is turn-based, so each player has their own turn to move. The ship also must gain time to make it back to the ship in a timely manner. Some other features are hidden behind a paywall - all the good games do. Hide all the Lightstones the ship can hold. Quick Hit boosts the ship's rate of fire. Trade for upgrades and gadgets. Once again, ship movement is turn-based. The ship must stop, spin around, and move to its new starting position. The other ships in the course must take their turn. The Lightstones that come into the player ship are teleported into the gun on the back of the ship. The game has two modes, mode one is basic, mode two is more challenging and closer to WipEout. Game engine is based on Unity. Quantum Rush is available on Steam. This game has been tested on two rigs (Windows 7 64bit, Windows 10 64bit) and all had no issues. Quantum Rush, like most indie games, is being made to test the limits of the engine used to make it. Bugs and glitches should be expected.The Village In The City by Pharrell Williams (feat. Skylar Grey) From the episode Whiplash Theme Song Lyrics: It's the best day of the week — Get up and go to work — Grab your apron The weather's perfect — It's the best day of the week. Smiling faces on the way to the shop — Today is the best day of the week — The streets are clean and bright — Everyone's good. It's the best day of the week. There's a perfect kindness in the air — Make your mark on the world — Put your best out there — Have a little fun — Today is the best day of the week — It's a perfect world. It's the best day of the week — week —
