About Morphite: What does "Myrah" mean? A child of the sky, with a gift for purpose and determination. What is "Morphite"? Morphite is a red and purple mineral that all lifeforms need to function. Plants use it to photosynthesize, plants and creatures alike survive off its consumption. It is a valuable resource that most species fight over. What are Myrah's powers? Her abilities come from morphite. Morphite allows her to harness its power to manifest physical entities in both space and on planet surfaces. Myrah primarily uses her powers for physical projects that require distance and strength. She is very powerful and has a high tolerance for pain, so don't ever go up against her in a fist fight. How can I get help to Myrah? Who is she? Myrah Kale has lived her entire life aboard the USS Arkonomet. An average teenager, Myrah wants nothing more than to remain on board Arkonomet, exploring the galaxy, living her life on the Ark. Lies and Rumors Morphite is widely known as a rare and valuable gem. Myrah, however, possesses an abnormality that creates a malformed gem that has increased power. As such, both the Ark and Myrah have been marked as bounties for using the alien material. How did Myrah end up on the Ark? The Ark was in transit when a large hunk of debris clobbered the ship, trapping Myrah and the ship's commander in its crumbling wreckage. The malfunctioning debris damaged the ship's navigational equipment, placing the Ark far off course. With Arkonomet itself crippled, Myrah and the Ark's commander were unable to safely return to their home planet. An emergency distress beacon was deployed, alerting the public to be on the lookout for an SOS on the Ark's orbit. How did Arkonomet's captain die? Myrah's rescue mission to the Ark leads her to the body of the captain, dead from a third blow to the head. Myrah comes to believe that she is responsible for his death, and her life will be forever changed. Can you help me? Morphite Morphite is a red and purple mineral that all lifeforms need to function. Plants use it to photosynthesize, plants and creatures alike survive off its consumption. It is a valuable resource that most species fight over. Arkonomet c9d1549cdd

A HUGE thank you to Nintendo for helping me come up with a name for my game. Thank you to anyone who has played it. Thank you to everyone who has enjoyed it. Thank you to everyone who has asked me for a keyboard to play it! Thank you to anyone who has compared it to Record all the Rule 34 music and agreed it should have! Thank you for reading! Wise rabbit09/12/2017 Good game I played this for a while and it had its moments. Overall it's good and I liked the music. There was some lag in my game, even while playing on my desktop. But the biggest problems I had with this game was it did not have a high score screen, it didn't show how many blueprints you had or other things a regular tower building game should have. For example how do you know when you need to start building up the tower? Are there trophies? Other games had those things, what's the point of this one not having any? Other things I found annoying is it didn't have a load time at all, you could build and build and there was no lag or load time at all, so you could play the game while

Day! Our 6th threshold. Do you realize how dangerous that is? Me? I barely make it through two of them per year! I spent most of the day working on generalizing the numbers we have to stretch to seven galaxies. However, that was challenging because we are running into issues with the generalization of the travel rate of stars to infinity, as well as using the average travel rate and not the actual ones of a few select stars. It is theoretically possible for that cluster to turn the whole universe into Tim and Bink, but it would take an absurd amount of time for it to occur, so for now we will all assume it is still us. As far as I know, our threshold days are repeatable and there are no stress factors. There is no exact date for each one. I would guess that I would have enough data points that I have to determine the average early in the week, and then the curve would be fairly stable. Now that I have been doing it for a while, I find that I am tracking better at the beginning of each week, so I will try to make an educated guess. I enjoy the Halloween trick-or-treat schedule, as it really puts the 4Ps into perspective. I hope all of your October's are enchanted with the amount of fun you are having with your pets. You made me laugh. Oh, and I'll keep saying that until I get tired of trying and give up. Me: "Oh Bink, look, he is changing his face for Halloween!" Bink: breathes deeply, of course the bubbles are fake "I'm not changing. I was born this way." Me: "Hurry up or the 4P's will have us on the dinner table!" Bink: pretends to tear off his head "I can't eat, I will die from blood loss." Me: "Oh wow, an honest, well thought out response. That was a close one." Bink sucks his thumb and sticks his tongue out "I'm just pulling your leg bitch!" Me: "Okay, enough fun for one lifetime! Off you go, Stumpy is waiting for you!" Stumpy took a liking to my stuffed cat, and
